A new painting depicting the spectacular Cape Cod sand dunes now hangs in Gov. John A. Volpe's office. The original painting by Chicago artist Phil Austin is from the book "Massachusetts From Its Glorious Past to the Present" by Allan Carpenter. It was presented to Gov. Volpe along with 100 copies of the new state history book by Wallace B. Black, vice president of Childrens Press, Inc., Chicago-based publisher of books for young people.

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce has voted unanimous support of Governor Volpe's latest tax program, terming it "sound and equitable in the allocation of necessary taxation among all the commonwealth's taxpayers..."

The Massachusetts Congress of Parents and Teachers has officially endorsed the fluoridation of community water supplies, at its annual meeting in Swampscott last week. The 900 PTA units, representing more than 125,000 parents and teachers, will actively promote the adoption of fluoridation in all of the communities in the Commonwealth during the coming year.

EARLY DEADLINE FOR NEXT ISSUE

The Townsman will go to press one day early next week to permit delivery of the paper on Wednesday, ahead of the Nov. 11 holiday. Persons submitting news for that issue are urged to have copy at our Chestnut St. offices on Friday or Saturday if at all possible. Late breaking news will be handled on Monday.

Operation Morale

It will be a bleak and frequently frightening holiday season for American boys who must celebrate Christmas in the jungles of Vietnam.

To help those in the U. S. forces who are there representing Andover, Mass. face this prospect, the Townsman is launching with this issue "Operation Morale."

In the coming weeks we will seek from the public and print the names and overseas addresses of all Andover boys who are now serving in Vietnam, and urge citizens to add them to their Christmas card lists. In addition, the Townsman will ship its Christmas issue as a belated holiday greeting to the men whose addresses are brought to our attention.

If you know an Andover man who is fighting in Vietnam, we ask you to submit his address, preferably in time for the next issue. Holiday mail for delivery overseas should be on its way.

Join with the Townsman in letting Andover's fighting men know that despite policy controversies, they have the support and the affection of the people in their hometown.

Marine General Nov. 11 Speaker

An Andover resident, Brigadier General John J. Wermuth, U. S. Marine Corps retired, will be the key speaker for this community's Veterans Day observance Nov. 11.

The Patriotic Holiday Committee, working with the cooperation of the combined veterans organizations, has scheduled memorial services for 11 a.m. Thursday at Spring Grove Cemetery.

Rev. Frederick Noss of South Church will offer the opening prayer for the service and Commander Benjamin Brown, American Legion Post 8, will deliver the eulogy.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars chaplain, Post 2128, is to pronounce the benediction after which a veterans' firing squad will fire the traditional volley. Larry Mazel, an Andover High School musician, will close the service.

Board Rules Against Lowe

James E. Lowe has received Zoning Board of Appeals permission to park a taxi at his Moraine St. home, but denied the right to continue operation of his taxi business in a residential zone.

In its decision, the board upheld a July ruling by Building Inspector Arthur Peatman which ordered the taxi operator to discontinue business operations at 23 Moraine St. by Aug. 16 or file for a ZBA hearing.

At a public hearing Sept. 2, Lowe admitted that his wife did take taxi company calls at his home when the company office was unoccupied. In its ruling, however, the ZBA said evidence presented showed the operation of a short-wave radio for the dispatching of taxis, the receiving of telephone calls on a business listing and the parking of more than one commercial-type vehicle.

Teachers Ask $400 Hike In Minimum

The Andover Teachers Assn. came to the School Committee Tuesday with a pay hike proposal that would set the bachelor's minimum at $5,400 up $400 over the figure in the schedule voted last year. Requested was a $700 increase for teachers at the bachelor's maximum, now $8,000.

Nearly a dozen representatives of the association were on hand, hopeful that the committee would bring them into a discussion of 1966 pay plans. Supt. Edward I. Erickson advised the policy makers to do just that, and he was supported by Committeeman William A. Doherty.

Other members of the committee, however, took the position that the board should not talk salaries with the teachers until they had heard the superintendent's pay recommendations. Erickson was asked to present his proposals at the next meeting, Nov. 16. He was reminded by one member that according to salary procedures established after last year's salary hassle, his recommendations were due at the first meeting in November.

In the discussion, Supt. Erickson said he feels it is not "fair to the teachers and the committee" to hear his proposals first. In later comment, member Virginia Cole was adamant in her objection to this line of reasoning. Taking the position that the association should do its initial "negotiating" with Erickson, Mrs. Cole pointed out that "In industry a union negotiates with the administration, not the board of directors."

One spokesman for the association reports that to date the teachers' group has had no advance hint of what Erickson has in mind for a salary schedule. The group leveled the same "secrecy" criticism at the School Committee sub-committee which handled preparation of the 1965 schedule. New procedures make the development

Commuters Praise B&M Conductor

A crusty B&M conductor dropped his familiar pose Friday and gave way to an emotional tug, brought on by a gesture of affection from commuters who congregated at the Andover station to honor the retiring railroader.

George N. Moriarty, 15 Richmond St., Dover, N. H., was confronted at 7:45 a.m. by a five-piece band and 50 or so riders. John F. Sullivan presented the 65-year-old conductor with a scroll with more than 75 signatures, a box of cigars and an envelope of cash collected from passengers.

He told Moriarty: "All of your passenger friends wanted to give you this token of our appreciation for your long and meritorious service."

A student musical group broke into "Auld Lang Syne" and passengers, including John Harriman of North Andover, Theodore Nowell, Edward Leveroni and Atty. Robert Zollner, crowded around to offer best wishes.

Before he realized that a celebration was in the offing, Conductor Moriarty tried to hustle the group onto the train. All business, he shouted, "What's all this about. Come on fellows, break it up. We have to get this train out on time for Boston." The train in question is the last a.m. commuter train remaining on the local B&M schedule.

Moriarty said later, "Gee, this is wonderful. In all my years working for the railroad, I have never seen anything like this before."

The conductor, born in 1901, started with the B&M at 22 as a brakeman. He has been a conductor since 1941.

MARINE GENERAL SPEAKING NOV. 11

Gen. Wermuth, a graduate of Cornell University, was born in Beacon, N. Y. He attended the Army War College at Carlisle, Pa. and was commissioned a Marine second lieutenant in 1936, advancing in 20 years to his present rank.

A good part of his military service was as a combat officer. In addition he served in many other capacities, including a tour as member of the United States Naval Mission to Brazil in 1946.

All who are to participate in the memorial service, including a color guard from the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in Lawrence, will meet at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at the American Legion Hall, Park St. and proceed from there to the cemetery.

Life is one continuous obstacle race for people who insist on jumping at conclusions.

League Promoting Test To Rate U.S. Citizens

The League of Women Voters is cooperating with a major television network in an effort to interest as many people as possible in taking a National Citizenship Test Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 10 p.m.

The special job of the League during this campaign is to act as major distributor for the official test form which the at-home audience must have ahead of time if they want to see how they rate on all kinds of subjects related to citizenship, voting, government and politics. The Andover League is sponsoring publication of the official test form in today's Townsman so that readers may clip it from the paper for later use.

The format followed on the show will be much the same as that used for the National Drivers Test given earlier this year. There will be short-answer questions and illustrated situations which the participants must solve by choosing from multiple choice or multiple sequence situations. Answers will be given during the program. Reporters Harry Reasoner and Mike Wallace will monitor the hour-long quiz.

Producers of the show have had the advice of a panel of government experts including Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Senator Everett Dirksen (R., Ill.) and professors from Harvard and Columbia Universities.

MICHAEL COPE

On Sunday evening, Nov. 7, the student council of Merrimack College will present Michael Cope, a brilliant young journalist and world traveler, in a public lecture.

Entitled "Red China Today," the lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the college auditorium.

An enterprising free-lancer from Canada whose "scoops" have appeared in scores of newspapers here and abroad, Cope has a real zest for tracking down exclusive stories.

His deadlines have included Havana, Peking, the North Pole, and Africa. Cope's Canadian passport enables him to penetrate into corners of the world from which American newsmen have been barred. His three-part report on deteriorating conditions in Cuba (which he visited in 1962) was published in the New York Herald Tribune and leading papers throughout the United States and the world. His Red China series, published by the Newsday Syndicate, scored a great "first" in American journalism.

The success of this Red China journey in 1964 was the pay-off for initiative and five years' persistence in trying to breach the Bamboo Curtain. Traveling 2,000 miles within Chinese borders, he talked with factory workers, commissars, women and children, encountering a harsh totalitarian existence. He found himself right on the spot when Red China triumphantly announced its first nuclear explosion and when jubilation broke out in Peking over the news of Khrushchev's fall.

Born in London, England, in 1930, Michael Cope began reporting current history at the early age of 11 with a series of school boy essays in his native Britain where he was on the receiving end of Adolf Hitler's efforts to beat down the British people through a systematic campaign of air raids.

From there, when he had grown up a bit, Cope went on to report from a score of datelines around the world: Cairo (where he covered the over throw of Egypt's late King Farouk), Khartoum, Addis Ababa, Cyprus, Malta, Korea and Singapore before he was released from the British Army News Unit to complete his studies at the London School of Journalism in 1955.

He was only 26.

Three years later, after stints on the Toronto Globe and Mail, and as Canadian correspondent for the Daily Express of London, England, he decided to go it alone as a freelancer.

In addition to his widely published reports, Michael Cope has broadcast over the BBC and on Canadian radio and TV.

The lecture is free and the public is invited.

Stotts Begin Everest Trek

Frederick and Nan Stott of Andover reached Katmandu, Nepal on Oct. 8 to begin their forty-day trek through the Himalayan hills to the base camp of Everest. The Stotts had planned this trip for years but were nearly forced to cancel it when hostilities between India and Pakistan broke out in September.

The expedition includes Lopsang Tsering, personal Sherpa of Edmund Hillary's wife, as well as two other Sherpas and nine porters. The Stotts were guests at a party given in New Delhi by A.S.C. Public Affairs, '45, before they left for Katmandu. Prior to flying to Nepal, the Andover couple spent several days in Greece, Fuller, a grandson of the Central Fullers who gave the bell tower to the academy.

Writing on the fifth day of the actual trek, (Oct. 13), Stott commented, four and one half days and forty plus miles on foot, to mention twenty-five rough miles in a Land Rover, and everything goes unbelievably well... As for us, no aches, no pains... The trek fits us and I think we fit it. Eight to ten miles per day, 4,000-7,000' elevation gained or lost. Stott is alumni secretary and director of development at Phillips Academy and is making this expedition as part of his sabbatical leave of absence from P.A.

What do these people mean to your children?

These are physical education teachers.

They perform an important service in the education of your boy or girl.

They deliver dividends on America's investment in learning

- because they direct education activities that help your child develop sound health and physical fitness.

Each child needs to be healthy and fit

- to gain personal fulfillment
- to make full use of his intellectual powers
- to lead a productive, rewarding life.

America must have young people who are sound of body and mind

- to maintain a vigorous, self-disciplined society

- to preserve the national security.

The future belongs to the fit—to those vigorous enough to live it and shape it.

How About YOUR Schools? Do your children have the benefit of teachers who are well prepared in physical education? Do your schools provide for each child a daily period of instruction and participation in vigorous activities? You can help see that they do. Write the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington, D. C., for information.

Alumni Rekindle Punchard's Glory

Graduates of the former Punchard High School and of Andover High School will meet for a 6:30 p.m. dinner dance at Briarcliff, the Knights of Columbus lodge, Saturday night to reactivate and reorganize a once-strong Punchard alumni organization, creating an association that will represent former students of both the old and the new high schools.

The history of the Punchard Alumni Assn. dates to 1891 when past scholars of the privately endowed Punchard Free School met to organize. By 1894 the association has "lived through many a cold water bath of adverse criticism" and landed on its feet in the middle of a depression with $50 in the treasury. Half this amount was voted for the purchase of school reference books.

Beginning in 1896 the alumni annually awarded the Goldsmith Rhetorical Prize until, in 1903, a permanent fund was created to support the speaking contest. In 1921 the association raised very nearly $1,500 for the purchase of a Steinert grand piano, a velvet curtain for the stage and the beginning of a scholarship fund which was later turned over to a board of trustees for management.

Enthusiasm for such alumni projects ran high until World War II. Since that time, though individual class reunions have been held by some groups, the association has been virtually inactive. No doubt a factor in its demise, the relocation and renaming of the town's high school.

The first of the schools to bear the Punchard name opened its doors to Andover students in 1856, six years after Benjamin Hanover Punchard left the town $40,000 for a permanent fund to support a "Free School" and $10,000 for the necessary buildings etc.

At Town Meeting that same year five trustees were elected, two from Christ Church Parish, two from the South Parish Society and one from the West Parish Society, who together with the rector of Christ Church and the ministers of South Parish and West Parish were, as Punchard willed, to direct the school.

The first building was constructed for $19,000 and the curriculum planned as a continuation of the "common system."

The original school burned in 1868 and the fate of Punchard was debated until 1870 when plans for a new building were drawn. The town appropriated the necessary construction funds and in 1871 the school reopened with 63 scholars and three teachers.

Andover and its school enrollment outgrew the Punchard fund and gradually the taxpayers assumed more and more responsibility for what became known as Punchard High School. By the early 1900's the trustees were responsible for only a portion of the headmaster's salary and that of one other teacher.

Today the income from the fund, which runs about $4,000 annually, is applied in part to some project suggested by High School Principal Philip Wormwood. Last year the trustees financed the purchase of equipment for the industrial arts program. A year earlier they underwrote the cost of research for a study methods course.

Water Data Sought In Washington

Selectman Paul Cronin and Manager Richard Bowen will be in Washington, D. C. to gather late data on the availability of Federal funds for the Fish Brook water project and some estimate of how quickly aid could be offered if Andover qualifies.

The board of selectmen approved this move Tuesday rather than that proposed by the Andover Taxpayers Assn. - immediate action on construction, without or without Federal aid.

The citizen's group made its wishes known in a letter to the board which said, in part, "choice between dollars and gallons is recognized as a difficult decision to make; however, the water supply problem has not become critical."

The government bill which could provide up to 50% in assistance stipulates that funds will not be awarded if contracts have already been let or construction begun.

Native Britisher Yankee In English

Pauline Porter of Andover, a British import will play the part of the only Yankee in the English farce "See How They Run" which is to be staged in Lawrence this month by Garrett Players Inc.

Surrounded by Americans playing Britishers, Mrs. (Donald) Porter will assume the role of an American actress married to a sedate English minister settled in a remote English village.

This will be Mrs. Porter's first performance on an American stage. She has had professional experience in England, however, where she traveled for a year and a half with a repertory company doing shortened plays and variety entertainment. In the United States just six years, she came to Andover as a children's nurse.

The Garrett Players will present Philip King's comedy on Nov. 12 and 13 at 8:30 p.m. at Turn Hall, Park St., Lawrence. Theodore Brios is directing the production.

Others in the cast, all from Lawrence, are Zona Sullivan, Nesta Saba, John Keefe, Ted Brios, Joseph Scionti, Richard Sequin, John Cote and Donald West.

Scheduled for later presentation are "Gaslight", "Bus Stop" and "Lullabye."

Tickets for next week's play may be purchased from members of the cast or at Turn Hall.

TAXI PARKING IS PERMITTED

at the Moraine Street address constitutes the operation of a business in a residential neighborhood.

Lowe was given permission to park a single taxi at his home with these stipulations: a) that it be a taxi used by Lowe to go to and from his place of business and that its parking on Moraine Street be in no way associated with the conduct of that business; b) that none of Lowe's drivers use the Moraine Street address as a stop-over between taxi runs; and that all business operations be conducted at the petitioner's office only.

The board reserved the right to revoke the special parking permit if the petitioner violates the conditions of the permit.

In a second decision the board agreed to a variance permitting the separation of an office building on Haverhill Street (the former Crystal Ballroom) and an adjoining apartment building which faces Balmoral Street east of Argyle.

Owners Frederick A. and John F. Higgins are interested in selling the properties as separate items. Noting that the entire building has been a non-conforming use in a residential zone since the adoption of Andover's first zoning bylaw in 1936, the board ruled that continued non-conforming use as two properties rather than one would not in its opinion cause a detriment to the surrounding neighborhood.

Higgins said Monday that he has no immediate plans for sale of either building.

Scheduled for tonight at 7:30 p.m. are ZBA hearings on the following:

The petition of Santo A. Sapuppo, 45 Bartlett St., requesting a special permit for construction of an attic apartment.

The petition of Emily G. Erler, 59 Haverhill St., seeking a variance to permit construction of a multiple family dwelling at that address.

The petition of Thomas F. and Joan McCormick, 186 Elm St. for a variance to permit rental of an existing in-law apartment.

In A Word . .

Flea

The flea still represents an important health hazard because it can carry plague and other serious diseases.

It is curious that this wingless parasitic insect, which cannot fly, should get its name from the Anglo-Saxon word flēan, to fly.

This old word also signified to move or run rapidly. The flea's speed of movement appeared to some observers to approximate flying.

Thus, to the ancient people of northern Europe, there was no semantic difference drawn between this insect, which could not fly, and others which could.

THE WORLD OF ART takes on meaning for children listening to a talk on painting at Boston Museum of Fine Arts.
(Courtesy, Museum of Fine Arts, Boston)

Museum Is Entertainment Mecca

The Museum of Fine Arts in Boston offers one of the biggest entertainment bargains in the world. To prove it you have only to compare the $25 tab for its family membership with fees current today for swimming, tennis and country clubs etc. It is a comparison of apples with oranges, but nonetheless a valid one.

The museum, well into a membership drive, sells its wares in more sedate terms, touting 11 diverse collections and six widely accepted educational programs.

Perry T. Rathbone, director, told a recent audience that the museum has lived its life largely on benefactions from the dead. Bequests have permitted the amassing of world-famous works of art which may be viewed free of charge by the general public.

Faced with increased operating expenses, Rathbone, his staff and an aggressive ladies auxiliary are working to increase membership by 11%. "The time has come", the director says, "for the living to do their part to advance its life."

Filled with collections that attract even young children, (the clipper ships and the Egyptian collection, for example), the museum offers members and their families such bonus invitations to receptions and views, special rates on subscription events, programs for children, free admission to a film and member lectures, excursions and the like.

Among priceless collections the Museum are:

The finest Chinese and Japanese art under one roof in the Western Hemisphere.

The finest Old Kingdom sculpture outside Cairo - the result of an expedition maintained by the Museum for 40 years.

The choicest Hindu sculpture in the Western Hemisphere.

TEACHERS ASK PAY INCREASES

of official salary proposals the responsibility of the department's chief executive, the superintendent.

In its proposal, the Teachers Assn. suggests raises that would bring the master's minimum to $5,900 and the maximum to $9,800, up from $5,400 and $9,100.

Approved

The committee approved, with Doherty casting the only negative vote, a job description for a new assistant superintendent of schools who will be in general charge of elementary education. The board made minor changes in Erickson's recommendation which was drafted along the lines of a proposal submitted some weeks ago by Mrs. Virginia Cole.

He told the board that he would prefer the across-the-board assistant he first requested, but that he would not oppose one to head up the elementary program.

Other Items

Erickson presented an estimate of space needs for proposed administrative offices for the school department totaling 4,659 sq. ft.

Despite questions from Committee woman Barbara Moody about the advisability of taking certain departmental directors away from school-building locations, the superintendent defended his plan to put such staff people as guidance, music and physical education directors in a central office.

The superintendent reported plans for a repeat of a program to recruit substitute teachers. Qualified persons in the Greater Lawrence area are asked to attend a meeting at 10 a.m. Nov. 9 in the Central Elementary School auditorium. Both prospective substitutes and persons already registered are invited.

The committee checked over the latest school population projections from Louis Warlick, noting its prediction of a total enrollment of 5,560 by 1970. Erickson called attention to accuracy of Warlick's prediction, estimating that the 1965 enrollment would hit 4,452. The actual is 4,609.

Guidance Director William Igde reported that a program academically gifted fifth and sixth graders will be launched Nov. 15. Youngsters to participate (with parental approval) have already been selected on the basis of I.Q. (130 or above), academic performance and school officials.

Teachers from within the system will be used to lecture on advanced materials.

Suburban Impact Of Rights Laws Speaker's Topic

Members of the school committee have been invited to a leading state educator and a group of suburban school officials to discuss the impact of the Kerner Report and the Racial Imbalance Law on Suburban Schools.

The meeting is to be held at 8 p.m. at Freedom House, a suburb under sponsorship of Massachusetts Federation for Housing and Equal Rights.

Speaking will be Dr. Thomas Curtin, deputy commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Education.

ANDONA AUCTION

The Andona Society will have an auction on Tuesday evening Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Thomas Darby and Mrs. Earl Simon are in charge of the affair, which will be held at the Andover Center on Brook St. Items donated by members of the Society will be auctioned and coffee and tea will be served. The public is invited.

Twelve Artists Exhibiting At Abbot

Opening Friday at John-Esther Gallery, Abbot Academy, is an exhibition of works by 12 artists who are teaching at Brown University, Harvard University, and Phillips Academy.

Participating in the show are Walter Feldman, Varujan Boghosian, Hugh Townley, Richard Fishman, Edward Koren, and John Udvardy, all of Brown University; Albert Alcalay, Robert Neuman, and William Georgeness, of Harvard University; and Christopher Cook, Gus Jaccaci, and Gerald Shertzer, of Phillips Academy.

Sculpture, painting, and graphic art will be on exhibit. In some cases one artist is represented in several media. Albert Alcalay, for example, is showing both paintings and ink drawings, one of which is on rice paper. Robert Neuman's work in both painting and printmaking is represented. His canvases and lithographs from the "Pedazos del Mundo" series suggest a fragmented world in flux. William Georgeness is a new member of the staff at Harvard's Carpenter Center for the Visual Arts. In his paintings the interweaving of thousands of delicate strokes in layers gives a luminous quality to the whole.

Four sculptors from Brown University are represented in the show. Hugh Townley exhibits several sculptures in wood and a color drawing. Richard Fishman is represented by two pieces in welded steel, and one bronze work, called "Selma." Two vertical constructions are shown by John Udvardy, whose works synthesize some elements from Pop and Op art. In addition, several etchings by Udvardy can also be seen. Varujan Boghosian includes work in both two- and three-dimensions: a box sculpture, a wood construction, and a line drawing.

Walter Feldman, also from Brown University, is exhibiting a number of paintings and drawings, all of which combine rich and brilliant colors into a lyrical, poetic image. The art of Edward Koren, a printmaker, may suggest Persian works in the rich colors and microcosmic design of his prints.

Gerald Shertzer, who teaches sculpture at Phillips Academy, composes abstract human images in metal. Christopher Cook is exhibiting several paintings and drawings. On the canvases, paint and magazine pictures merge in a flowing stream-of-consciousness type of collage. One of the most vibrant paintings in the show is by Gus Jaccaci, who also works through the medium of etching. The exhibit will be on view Nov. 5 through Nov. 23, Monday through Friday, 10 to 4, and Sunday 2 to 5.

A STREAM-OF-CONSCIOUSNESS COLLAGE by Christopher Cook. (Look)

Silent World On Film Bill

The American Field Service, Andover chapter, will open its annual film series Nov. 12 with the "Silent World", a Cannes Film Festival prize winner.

The film classic, directed by Yves Cousteau, will be shown at 8 p.m. in the Andover High School auditorium. It is narrated in English.

Other films scheduled by AFS are "The Magnificent 7" (Japanese) and "League of Gentlemen" (British).

Tickets for the series may be reserved by contacting either Mrs. Richard Marclano or Mrs. Herbert Lake. Individual tickets will be available at the door.

This is the third year the local AFS chapter has sponsored a foreign student's trip to the U.S. For this school term Francoise Hautemulle from France is living with Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Wesolowski and their family and is enrolled at Andover High School. During the summer Andover Student Kathy Muller visited in the Philippines under an AFS plan.

The chapter is now seeking the names of families interested in being hosts to foreign students in the future. Persons who want additional information may contact Mrs. Herbert Lake.

Boys Signing For AHA Play

A registration day for boys interested in participating in the weekend hockey program of the Andover Hockey Assn. will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. Registration will take place at the Phillips Academy hockey rink.

The association program is open to all boys between the ages of 6 and 15 inclusive with age computed as of May 31, 1965. All participants must be residents of Andover or attend school in Andover.

Each boy must furnish his own equipment with the exception of goalie's protective equipment. No player will be allowed on the ice without a helmet with a chin strap. Mouthguards are strongly recommended.

Each boy must pay a participation fee of $5.00 which will be used for purchase of team jerseys, hockey injury insurance, equipment, and ice fees.

Those who have played previously should register by mail (Box 167, Andover). Also, boys new to the program who are unable to register on Sunday, Nov. 7, may register by mail. Players will be grouped by age and ability, which makes it important that the boys birth date be included with other registration information.

Boys will be notified by mail of their group assignment before the first session of the program.

An Appealing Objective

Monday's Andover Educational Conference will present the public with the opportunity for a two-way discussion of what is ahead for education.

A Harvard expert will describe the future as he sees it and in talk-groups, the people will air personal opinions about what education ought to be and do.

It is a venture that should be widely supported in a town which watches educational matters with such intensity. It will serve the dual purpose of exposing arm chair superintendents to some free, expert advice and giving citizens a chance to throw their own ideas about education into the hopper.

The conference is intended to shed some light on what brand of education it will take to prepare young people for an increasingly technical world. It will not be a major function of the gathering to determine how that end is to be achieved, but it is the "how" that should be of prime concern here. In a town where the school committee forces progress by usurping administrative powers on the one hand and impedes it by indulging in internal bickering on the other, the means to the end cannot be ignored.

It is comforting and encouraging to learn, via reports of a New York state study on Educational Leadership, that the malady which afflicts our school system is not uncommon in the country's more than 28,000 school districts, and that cures are being proposed.

Theoretically school board members are supposed to function like university trustees or corporate policy makers, keeping free of the leadership role assigned to professional administrators. In practice, more often than not apparently, things get out of whack.

Part of the fault, says the New York Times' Fred Hechinger in summarizing the report of a high-level advisory committee to the New York State Board of Regents, is the mass of state laws which make school board members responsible for such administrative chores as approving personnel appointments (even those of teachers), vouching for textbooks, passing judgment on educational methods and innovations and putting their signatures to contracts and purchases.

Why else have school boards become entangled in non-policy activities? Because there has been a "lack of effective leadership among professional administrators - the superintendents and their staffs." Says the Times: "Deficiency in executive leadership sets off a vicious circle; board members feel that they must provide a substitute and this, in turn, dulls the administrator's habit of command. In the worst situations, this leads to buck-passing and inaction".

After a long look at school board practices in general, the New York committee has proposed these key reforms:

- 1) Repeal of laws which give school policy makers responsibility for functions that are the proper concern of school superintendents.
- 2) Establishment of a screening or nomination procedure for prospective candidates which would result in the office seeking the qualified man rather than vice versa.
- 3) Improved procedures for the selection of superintendents. Suggested is that men of broad leadership qualifications should be eligible for superintendents' jobs, even if they have come up through other than school administrative channels.

The overall objective is one that should have local appeal: to get laymen out of school administration and to make superintendents and their professional staffs accountable for the quality and success of the schools' operations.

Did You Know . . .

Your risk of being killed in an accident this year is about one-third less than it was a generation ago. But the odds are still 1 in 18 that you'll suffer a mishap serious enough to restrict your activities for at least two days, and 1 in 1,829 that you'll have a fatal accident.

These accident probabilities and trends were computed by the Journal of American Insurance from the National Safety Council's annual tally of accidental deaths and injuries. Last year accidents caused 105,000 deaths and 10,200,000 injuries disabling beyond the day of accident, in a civilian population of 192 million.

"Most striking are the possibilities of being injured in the home (1 in 44) or of being killed in a motor vehicle accident (1 in 4,025)." "Accidents are currently the leading cause of death for persons between the ages of 1 and 35, and are the fourth leading cause of death for all persons. Five of six youths who die between the ages of 15 and 24 are accident victims."

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago - November, 1890
A society of children has been formed at Free Church called the "Whatsoever Society". It is composed of about twenty children who sew and make articles for Christmas.

Hardy & Cole received the contract to erect a building for the Andover Creamery on land purchased of Joshua Chandler in West Parish. Moses Smith of Methuen will put in the foundation.

Halloween was observed with more than the usual amount of mischievousness on the part of the boys. Bells were rung, gates unhung and similar idiotic attempts to be funny perpetrated about town.

Mr. Wm. Poor took over the road last Wednesday, a new meat wagon to Nashua. This is the third one he has delivered there since July 1st. He left at 3 a.m. and returned at 3 p.m. making a round trip of 50 miles with his horse, a pretty good day's work for a man over 80 years old.

The old and familiar Mansion House that has sheltered so many men great in all branches of the world's fame, has a new landlord, Mr. E. P. Hitchcock, the new landlord, has had much hotel experience, and possesses the genial, pleasant characteristics of the popular landlord.

Samuel W. McCall and the entire Republican ticket won in Tuesday's contest. Nesbit G. Gleason was elected representative. It is very evident that the Prohibition movement which was so strenuously advocated by William Shaw of Ballardvale, and as whose head he was the candidate for Governor, has been given a deathblow in this State, for his vote was only about 20,000 and he ran a poor third. The vote he received in his home town was extremely small, Precinct 2, Ballardvale, giving him fewer votes than for Governor Walsh and only three more than for McCall.

Among those who rejoice at the defeat of the Suffrage Amendment at the election of Tuesday is Ellsworth Dougall of Boston, nephew of Mrs. F. E. Wright of Bartlet St. Young Dougall has been the official bugler of the Antis all through the campaign and has appeared in many cities and towns throughout the state.

As Miss Anna Chase was standing on the piazza of her home in the Pond district one day this week, she saw a handsome deer swim across the pond and trot into the bushes.

I beg your pardon; can you tell me where Cedar Rd. is? Spike Adriance was not destined to find the answer to his question from the young man who had come up the street out of Monday evening's darkness. Spike and a number of other Wildlife Independents had left headquarters Monday night at eight in the whirlwind tour to deliver some 800 addressed circulars to Andover Democrats. To many of them, some of Andover's streets were new territory. To Spike, Johnson Acres was something virtually virgin. But so it was to the young man from whom he asked directions; P. A. faculty colleague Fritz Allis was also looking for a Democratic house in Johnson Acres!

Andover's first poppy purchaser this year is Andover's first draftee, Gordon Tyndall, who bought his poppy from Legion Commander George Napier.

Shawshen children modeled war relief garments at Memorial Auditorium to show how old material can be made into fashionable suits and dresses.

What will Everett Collins do about his selectman's position now that he has been elected representative? He wants to continue in it, and it was with that stipulation that he agreed to run for representative.

What Our Readers Say— Invisible Pig

To the Editor of the Townsman:
I think you are right in warming up the subject of the new town hall. The issue maybe more far-reaching than you suggest.

If ever this town went about a major problem in the wrong way, it did just that last March. The proper sequence of events when thinking of a new public building is: 1) to choose a suitable site, 2) to develop plans and specs to meet the need and fit the site, 3) to get a cost estimate based on those plans and, last, to ask the voters for an appropriation. In this way, the veto power always remains with the voters, where it belongs.

Last March, we made the appropriation step number one. We put the cart before the horse. What has this reversal of proper procedure accomplished? On the surface it hasn't accomplished anything because, without site and plans, you can't spend a single construction dollar.

But underneath, there are several accomplishments, all bad. One such accomplishment was to vote money for which there is no visible use. Another such accomplishment was to deprive the voters of any control over selection of site. And a third such achievement was to deprive the voters of any control over plans, specs and cost. Thus did the voters, perhaps unwittingly, disenfranchise themselves. What we really bought last March is an unseen pig in an unknown poke.

But, perhaps, all is not lost. Were we to rescind last March's unfortunate action, we could make a fresh start and do the whole thing in correct sequence. We could then proceed out of respect for the fact that Andover's town hall belongs not to Andover's officials but to Andover's people.

Critical Situation

To the Editor of the Townsman:
I was certainly glad to see the editorial last week in which the Townsman took a stand relative to the site for the proposed Town Hall, because I am really concerned that it should be considered on the Shaw property. Being the owner of a new and struggling business nearby, whose customers almost all come by car, I can't imagine what would happen if even so much as a foot of parking space were to be sacrificed for the building.

There are many times when there is not an available place to park, legally or illegally, except at a few meters, and this is true even when the business school is not in session, which just means that Andover does not have adequate off-street parking at the moment even for people working in the area. The thought of less space to a building and adding more workers many of whom will drive to work is horrifying. To add more meters - where are the people and customers who are in ads there is "ample" parking" going to go? Will the streets? This critical situation exists today - what about tomorrow?

Maybe I don't need to worry maybe plans for the Town Hall the Shaw property include provisions for enough additional parking to take care of present needs and future expansion - I hope so.

A Federal Cake

To the Editor of the Townsman:
It was helpful of The Townsman to devote considerable space to a detailed review of "Questionnaire from Washington" recently given Andover public school pupils. We should be prepared for more such essays and legitimate probing as a Federal government, in doing duty, does no more than come with its proved programs protecting its investments.

For our part, we should read that correct anticipation of our salaries reduces misunderstanding. It seems certain that we are confronted with corollaries inherent in the Federal government entrance into the field of education of the young. Even at least it entails broad and interest in the home life of parents; education being a day process with the young.

The questionnaire seems to indicate that government is not that what is taught in school can be cancelled during the hours a pupil is exposed to the influence other than those conducive to programs for which Federal money is used. That is a reasonable position on the part of the government we have voted for.

Accordingly, by now it should be clear that a principal corollary of Federal aid to education is the parents and public school are going to lose quite a bit of what heretofore has been considered the private sector of education and home life. That is proper. It would be unwise for any entity to invest its money, in education nationwide, with never a thought as to what forces are at work unwittingly or otherwise, rubbing away what the schools are laboriously inculcate in the hours of the pupils' daily life which is available to the schools. Again we must conclude that we cannot have our cake and eat it too.

Birds Control Insect Population On Island

Monomoy Island should be the most insect-free area in Massachusetts.

At this season, migrating warblers and sparrows congest the few sparse woodlands on this 12-mile-long sandy strand.

James Baird of the Massachusetts Audubon Society recently spent two weeks banding birds on Monomoy. His headquarters was the old Monomoy Light near the Southern tip of the barrier beach. "In the mornings," Baird said, "six to ten warblers each hour went through a beach plum tree outside the lighthouse. By that, I mean each of these birds carefully inspected almost all of the tree in a search for insects."

"When one considers that only about one-sixth of the island has vegetation on it, one might reasonably conclude that few trees or shrubs have been searched as carefully as the beach plums and bayberry bushes of Monomoy."

A measure of the prevalence of the birds may be gained from the fact that Baird banded more than 800 myrtle warblers near the lighthouse. These, of course, represent but a small fraction of the thousands of land birds going across the island at this season.

Other birds visiting the vegetation in great numbers include golden-crowned kinglets, red-eyed vireos and hermit thrushes.

"One brown creeper spent an entire day going over the single on the side of the lighthouse," Baird said. "It was hunting, of course, for any insects."

Any land bird found on a coastal island at this season probably is hungry. The chances are good that the bird may have almost exhausted the fat that fuels its migratory flights. Its presence on Monomoy almost certifies that it is a bird that has lost its directions and may have been blown at sea for many miles and suddenly saw the island landfall and flew to it. Supposedly thousands of birds die each autumn through flying too far at sea and exhausting themselves before finding an island.

Until radar was used in observing bird migrations, ornithologists assumed generally that birds flew south along a strand such as Monomoy much as they might fly south along the Connecticut River.

But the blips on radar maps

Plato Next

SYMPOSIUM by Plato will be the reading for participants in the Great Books discussion to be held at Memorial Hall in the children's room on November 16th at 7:30. Meetings are held alternate Tuesday evenings. The discussion group leaders are not teachers. Rather, they are moderators - the actual teachers are the books themselves.

The readings are exciting and challenging, books that everyone has been meaning to read but may have overlooked due to outside pressures. If you have been meaning to join a Great Books group, now is a good time to start while the current reading series is still young. All that is necessary is to read, enjoy, and share the resulting ideas with your like-minded neighbors at the library. Robert Rockwell and Miss Helen Stearns are moderators of the Andover area group.

telling a different story. The birds were not flying down the coast, islands from north to south. They were flying in from sea and landing on the islands. The movement was from east to west. For land birds, the islands were not normal migration landmark but rescue stations. Wayne Hanley, Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Florist To Demonstrate Designs For Newcomers

Members of the Andover Garden Club attending a morning coffee Tuesday at Andover Country Club, looked on as Mrs. Frederick Higgins, president and Mrs. George Francis, chairman of the civic beautification committee, presented a $100 certificate to the town for purchase of plant material for landscaping at the Andover Recreation Park lodge.

The check and landscaping plans drawn by Miss Marjorie Stearn were turned over to Recreation Director Leslie Bartow. Miss Stearn, an honorary member of the club and a landscape architect, volunteered landscaping plans for the lodge.

Funds for such civic beautification and conservation projects is earned by the club through its house tours, sales, flower shows etc.

Announced at the morning meeting was the fact that the club has received a special citation for its work with the Junior Garden Club on an anti-litter campaign. Mrs. Robert Lange is chairman of the junior club.

The citation reads "... to the Andover Garden Club . . . in recognition of the outstanding work in leadership and achievement in behalf of the Federation Program to Keep Massachusetts Beautiful, through education of today's youth, Andover Florist Richard Trull will present a demonstration and talk on "Holiday Floral Designs" for the Nov. 16 meeting of the Andover Newcomer's Club, at Free Christian Church from 1 to 3 p.m.

Qualified by seventeen years' experience as a professional florist, Trull travels as a consultant throughout New England and Canada giving illustrated lectures and instruction to more than 35 groups of florists annually. In his demonstration he will show arrangements that can be made with fresh flowers as well as displays of dried varieties of grasses and flowers.

Mrs. Rudolph Morin, president of the Newcomers' Club, has invited all interested women to attend the meeting at which a nominal donation will be requested.

Competent babysitters will be available at the church for preschool children for a minimum charge.

After the program, refreshments will be served by hostesses under the direction of Mrs. Don Clough.

Yesterday 28 members of Newcomers' organization took a bus for Boston for the first several trips to be sponsored by a new "Fun in the Hub" group led by Mrs. Richard Katz.

Leaving the bus in front of the historic Park Street Church in Boston, the women first visited Filene's famous basement store. Later the new residents walked through the Boston Common and had lunch at the old Union Oyster House.

The purpose of the trips is to introduce Andover newcomers to the many famous attractions of Boston, present and past.

Andover residents wishing to join the group should contact Mrs. Morin.

Baldwin and I will be living in Andover though not associated officially with P.A."

"I couldn't be happier about the appointment of Mr. Whyte whom I have known and admired for many years. He and Mr. (Frederick) Pease will make a strong team. They are both well qualified in the positions they will occupy as they know and like and respect each other."

Termed a "rugged challenge for teenagers", Outward Bound is a summer program that involves rigorous outdoor living for boys. Classroom visitations will be held from 7 to 8 p.m.

Heading the Shawshoen organization this year are: John McIntosh, president; Richard Barney, first vice president; Mrs. Mavis Cox, second vice president; Mrs. Shirley M. Vets' Children Get School Aid

Children of both living and deceased veterans studying under the Orphans Education Assistance Act will receive this month the new educational allowance rates stipulated into law by President John F. Kennedy.

At the same time, the new law removes a restrictive provision for eligibility under the Orphans Education Assistance program. The provision had previously required that the qualifying death or disability result from the "performance of duty." The new law strikes out the "performance of duty" provision.

This change in the law now reopens eligibility for those children whose applications had been denied because they did not meet this provision. They or their parents or guardians should file another application as they may become eligible under the new law.

More than a hundred children throughout Massachusetts may now have become eligible because of this change.

The increase in monthly educational assistance allowance rates which go from $110 to $130 a month for full-time study will affect between 700 and 800 Massachusetts students in the current school year. During the last school year, more than 900 children were studying under the Orphans Education Assistance program in Massachusetts.

U. S. Armed Forces Lower Standards

A change in mental standards for induction has been made. As of Nov. 1, 1965 a man who is a high school graduate will be acceptable for induction if he attains a score of 16 or better on the Armed Forces Qualification Test, says John C. Carr Jr., Massachusetts selective service director.

Previously a man who attained a score of less than 31 on this test was required to pass additional aptitude tests in order to qualify for military service Carr said.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Waiting To Hear From You. . .

The Shawsheen Motor Mart Inc., located at 39 Haverhill St., is presently enjoying one of its finest years as a franchised dealer for Ford due to the popularity of the 1966 models.

This year's Fords are superb and are awaiting your inspection at the Motor Mart now. In all, Ford offers 48 models for '66 which includes the new series, the Galaxie 500 7-Litre. As for the Fairlane for 1966, there is the all new Cruise-O-Matic shift attraction that lets you shift either manually or automatically as you prefer. The Thunderbird comes in four models: Town Landau, Town Hardtop, Convertible and Thunderbird Hardtop. There are also Mustangs and Falcons for the economically minded driver. But, this year's Ford Wagons are better than ever with their new Magic Door gate feature. And, there's quite a variety of these fine cars on display at the Motor Mart. If you can't find one exactly right for you, Shawsheen Motors will gladly order according to your specifications. Or, maybe you'd prefer looking over the Motor Mart's fine selection of used cars. For your convenience, Shawsheen Motors is open until 9 every night and will welcome your visit.

Under the management of John Lewis, the Motor Mart has become one of the largest volume dealers in the Merrimack Valley. So, why not call 475-0767 to find out more about the '66's or visit Mr. Pearson, Mr. Corey, Mr. Guiffreda, or Mr. Lawrence at the Motor Mart whenever you're thinking about buying a new or used car.

One reason: MITRE's work is on the frontier of large-scale systems design. We design and engineer information, sensor, command, control, and communications systems, and develop new techniques which contribute to the advancement of the general technology.

The challenge is to mate present and predictable technology to the nation's future electronic systems. Work covers a broad spectrum of problems and the technologies needed to solve them. And associates include the military and technical people who are leaders in the conception, design, engineering and acquisition of many of the nation's most important electronic systems.

In view of this, wouldn't you like to work at MITRE? If you have the qualifications, then check the openings available, and join us.

COMMUNICATIONS — We need people who can help conceive new communications systems, recommend development programs to achieve these, and analyze special communications requirements generated by new systems concepts. Work areas include systems planning, analysis, simulation and design for command and control systems, missile and space systems and test range and weapons support systems, engineering of communication networks, range instrumentation, tactical air control, and survivable communications.

NATIONAL AIRSPACE SYSTEM — We need people in MITRE's Washington, D.C. office to provide system engineering assistance to the Federal Aviation Agency for its new air traffic control system. Mitre's increasing responsibilities include broad level system design, computer program operational specification, equipment specification, configuration management, system integration, and system test planning. Experienced staff additions are needed in all areas.

SENSOR SYSTEMS — People needed to support theoretical and experimental programs on advanced radar and optical detection and tracking systems; feasibility and technique analysis, systems synthesis and performance evaluation.

COMPUTER PROGRAMMING — People needed with experience in the development and support of monitors, compilers, real-time simulations, time-sharing systems, etc.

TELEMETRY — Engineers are needed to work with telemetry and instrumentation. Particular work areas include telemetry standards, systems, and techniques for both airborne and ground applications. Experience should include design or analysis of telemetry systems as well as modulation theory, RF techniques and receiving and transmitting antenna systems.

RANGE DATA TRANSMISSION — Engineers are needed to work on range data transmission. Particular work areas include digital data transmission, systems analysis and testing. Experience with switching systems, modulation and information theory, and coding is desired.

DIGITAL COMPUTER ENGINEERS — Experienced in logic design, digital display engineering, and digital communications interface design.

If you have at least three years' experience and a degree, preferably advanced, in electronics, mathematics or physics, contact us. Write in confidence to Vice President—Technical Operations, The MITRE Corporation, Box 208P, Bedford, Massachusetts.
